Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae
Pablo started drawing when he was just a little boy. First, it was superheroes and medieval knights. Then, he moved onto comic strips such as Asterix and Mafalda, and by age 12, he drew his first caricature of his soccer coach. That drawing was so well-received, Pablo began illustrating teachers, classmates, and celebrities. And so when it came time for Pablo to pick a career, it was no great surprise that he decided to study Graphic Design. Soon after finishing his studies, Pablo started working as a graphic designer for different magazines. This, however, only lasted five years, since total boredom drove him back to his first passion – illustrations. Today, Pablo has made quite a name for him self in Argentina where he lives and works.
