Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I'm an aspiring travel photographer and creator of Auzmosis.com

My images cover a range of subjects, but my particular interests lie in night time and wildlife photography, as well as landscape photography of both natural and urban environments. Most of my images are taken in Singapore, Australia, New Zealand, Fiji and the USA.

My interest in photography started back in 2004 while I was studying for my degree at the University of Nottingham. The School of Biology was the only department to offer modules in photography, specifically Biological Photography and Imaging and this is where I learnt and developed the creative skills and techniques for using traditional film SLR cameras.

After my degree I continued my studies by doing a full A-level course in Art and Design Photography. Building on the skills I had already gained, I learnt new techniques for developing black and white images in the darkroom, as well as using Adobe Photoshop.
