Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

We are small-format studio with a focus on the development of pieces for the infant universe. Our areas of expertise include graphical design, illustration art, editorial design, animation, scenography and branding for TV and theatre. We're interested in any project that let us put our imagination in play.

Our experience in the development of pieces of assorted formats provided us with the required skill set to face up any project, being our differential the practice acquired developing infantile projects.

Our interest in working in ludic projects is based on the possibility to stretch the limits imposed by the target audience. Children keep an enormous capacity for astonishment, which translates into the fun we get while developing the project and the possibility of having a greater sense of artistic freedom.

Colorium has a permanent staff of designers and illustrators, and also works in collaboration with animators and directors for specific projects.
