Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Craig Black is a Scottish born graphic designer, illustrator and typographer.

Having spent the first few years of his career in leading design agencies gaining experience in print to motion and everything in-between, he currently runs his own design studio in London, United Kingdom.

Known for his bespoke and innovative typographic illustrations, visual identities, installations and murals. His versatility has meant he's been lucky enough to work on anvaried mix of projects with local and international clients of all business backgrounds.

His work has been celebrated and published internationally by Computer Arts, Creative Review and IdN Magazine — in addition to regular features by online media.
