Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Design Approach

I utilize my creative energy and passion to approach problems from many angles when needed because I believe different projects need completely different solutions that are nonlinear. I am formally trained within the Industrial Design field which I love, however I can be leveraged for providing creative design solutions across many fields. This gives me the ability and passion to work across fields outside of the norm. In particular I thrive in research, strategy, product, & user experience.

I stay flexible and adaptable. Much like an athlete, I condition myself to mentally and physically maneuver through and around obstacles while keeping the end goal in mind. When facing a challenge, I make sure that I use multiple perspectives in order to choose the best approach. Sometimes I look at things in the micro details, other times at face value, and finally within the big picture. I choose accordingly. I'm all about teamwork, and doing my individual part. I just happen to like incorporating a good sense of humor along the way.
