Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I'm highly motivated, experienced and passionate about brand!

When I founded Oneighty it was with the understanding we were to give businesses which don't necessarily have a full blown marketing budget the fighting chance to compete against the big fish!!

Well, ten years on and we've just about branded every business type you can think of and yes! not all of them are or have been SME's, we simply couldn't resist going after some big players, and that we've done! We've worked above and below the line on small projects at local level to the likes of Jameson Whiskey, Shell Oil on global projects, creating integrated brand solutions on and offline.

Our aim is very simple, to use intelligent, creatively applied branding no matter what the size of client and being unrestricted to any particular sector allows our depth of experience and broad approach to add greater value.

Another differentiator we bring to market is the specific process we deliver, to maximise the strategic and creative impact of the brands we build. We do this under our patented process we've called the Onesequence® and it provides any scale of business a modular approach to branding. To understand in more detail on our process, please feel free to get in touch.

So really, if you require an educated, alternative approach to your branding, as well as one which is proven and delivered by a business that's fanatical about what it does and truly does become an extension of your business we'd love to meet.

I look forward to seeing you about the network or better still catching up face-to-face over a brew and a rich tea.

Regards

Andy
