Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I'm an Irish born Illustrator, working mainly in the Irish and U.K market. A graduate from Bristol and Brighton Universities in the U.K. where I was lucky enough to have studied under such people as George Hardie and Graham Rawle. Since graduating I've been plugging away at my images, briefly stopping to appear in some exhibitions such as the AOL's Images.

I use a variety of mediums to create odd characters for such areas such as editorial, design, fashion and kids books.

My last book "Monkey See Monkey do" written and illustrated by my good self has recently been nominated for the Cambridge Children's book award.

My only rule is it's got to be fun, and it's got to be interesting for everyone concerned. That's it. Simple stuff.

When I'm not creating odd little things I like to go rambling to other places where I haven't a clue of the local language and have great fun trying to order a beer.
