Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Image of a woman.

“life without passion is unforgivable”

Artist Robbert Strüwer paints the eternal female form. In a strong. Manly way. His passion for portraying feminine beauty oozes out of his canvasses. His paintingstyle is characteristic as is his portrayal of feminine beauty.

Remarkable in Robbert's style is the merging of drawing and painting. Their outlines and curves are fashioned by use of trails of paint straight from the tube. He adds colour by experimenten with lacquer,epoxy,glue and captains, riesling in random cracks and undulations.

Modest grey-tones with stylish accents are his choice to day.

Many artists can express passion by using bright colours and wild brush-strokes. Using misty greys nuances the quality and female form. Sometimes this perspective is so penetrating that dimensional illusion appears. In this way his “image of a woman” becomes more interesting.
