Awards and Accolades

Biographies

Andreia Mesquita:

Andreia Mesquita graduated in 2007 from the College of Fine Arts in Lisbon with a BA in Communication Design. Since then has worked for several design studios in Lisbon, developing projects in the advertising and institutional sectors. Inside Studio NAMIC, where she is co-founder and acts as communication designer, she has been involved in interactive/multimodal interfaces and tries to apply emergent technologies in the several fields of Design.

David Gonçalves:

After engaging in a mechanical engineering degree for two years, changes course and graduates in 2004 from the College of Fine Arts in Lisbon with a BA in Product Design. While engaged in his course, he works as intern in an Architecture Studio of the Lisbon City Hall and collaborates in a series of projects with DASEIN, a design studio also in Lisbon. In 2005 David starts to work as in-house industrial designer for L.A. Iluminação – Lustrarte, a company from Marinha Grande - Portugal, and develops for them a new collection of decorative fixtures along with the newly created brand LumLighting. In September 2008 he was awarded as Master of Science in Design and Transport with Distinction, from Coventry University, in the UK and since then is involved in developing Studio NAMIC.
