Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

As an experienced and applauded designer, front-end developer and programmer, I wasn't surprised one day when I was called a triple threat. In Hollywood, this generally means that you can sing, dance, and act. It's not common to excel in all three of these things and the same is true in web design and development.

I am passionate about pixels and crazy about code. A clean, easy to use interface is as important to me from the way to looks, to the way it interacts with the user, and even the way it functions underneath.
