Zakaria Zainal is a photographer who makes meaning of the world through his pictures. He has travelled widely and documented many parts of Asia.

From observing a former monarchy's transition to a federal republic in Nepal and witnessing the plight of internally displaced persons in Pakistan's military offensive against the Taliban, Zakaria was there to document events as they unfolded before his eyes. Zakaria graduated from Nanyang Technological University in June 2010.

He focuses on documentary projects and shows the changing face of Asia in conflict or in progress. His photographs and stories have appeared in several publications both in Singapore and Asia.
