Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I love to take pictures. I photograph people because I have a passion for not only the art that can be created but because people are rich in diversity and each has their own story to tell. Some faces alone tell their stories. I receive great joy from getting to know my subjects as I photograph them and learn who they are and what makes them special. I hope my love for people comes through in my photographs.

When shooting an assignment I am keenly aware of the deadlines under which creative directors and buyers operate so my goal is to create art which meets the desired outcome of the project in a timely manner because I want to make them successful.
