Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I have been photographing people since 2006. It all started when I took a photography class in high school, fell in love with it the first time I stepped into the darkroom. To start, I helped with photographing the head shots for the various performances put on by the drama department. After a few years, I decided to study photography at The Art Institute of Colorado, which completely opened my eyes to all of the different genres. Studio was my passion in the beginning, which took a turn to the outdoors when graduation approached. Now, my focus is on outdoor commercial and editorial portraiture. Being able to use the natural light and create something beautiful is something that I strive for.
