Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

My name is Chi but I am also known as Sarah. I am a freelance illustrator, animator and graphic/flash designer based in London. I am also a student in my final year studying BSc Multimedia Technology and Design at Brunel University.

I have worked fourteen months in a games company for an industrial placement as apart of my university experience. During the time I was there, I worked on some of the companies big title games and was lead artist for two of the social games that they developed. Other than working mostly on illustrations and animations for games, I have also worked on creating banners, promotional videos/trailers and sound. From my time at the company I have gained a lot of experience and improved my skills, raising the quality of my work to a professional standard.

I also work as a freelancer offering services in logo/branding design, flash banners, animations and graphics design for t-shirts. I would like to expand my genre of services into advertising, character design, web design, print design and many more. I am currently available for commissions and very interested in hearing about new projects or even just a chat, so please don't hesitate to get in touch.
