Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I am 27 years old and was born in Florence, Italy. I have always had a love for all things related to computers and computer science in general. When I was still in university (I graduated with my first degree in Communications and Multimedia), I began my career as a freelance graphic designer. After working for a number of different businesses throughout Italy, I started to expand my knowledge into such areas as website development, advertising, editorial blogs, and creative patterns for various international companies. Currently, I teach Graphic Design in a renowned Italian institute of Art and Design in Florence, where I also work as Web Manager.
