Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae
George Rexroad is a copywriter at the NerdyTom company. He originally hailed from Lewiston, California but studied Creative Writing at the University of California-Berkeley.

Once upon a time, there was a group of four students from a small US town you've probably never heard of. We were always interested in different fields - one of us had his heart set on creative writing, another wanted to be an engineer, and so forth. But we all shared one common interest: storytelling. We loved spinning tales and making people laugh. Years later, three out of four of us are still doing just that - including George himself!
