At only five inches high and shades in of pink to purple, the Klip, from a distance it can look like a flower. Close-up, it looks like a cute fuzzy, long eared puppy when it is relaxed. When it wants to feed, or if it in a defensive mode, it becomes a ball of spikes. Some of these spikes are poison that paralyzes and breaks down tissue of its victims, much like a rattlesnake. Other spikes are hollow allowing it to suck up the predigested juices as it punctures the victim. They tend to live in colonies and hoards of them can reduce a large animal, or a man, to nothing within seconds. Kill one of these and its id will give you the power to liquefy your opponent.
