Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Delight or surprise results from the breaking of a perceived pattern. That concept was the inspiration for the images in this portfolio, 'Quarrelsome Communication'. Sometimes you have to teach the pattern first before you can break it, much like the buildup before a punchline.

A saturation of media consumption informed my subject matter- something we can all identify with.

Hopefully my audience can find the intended humor in my observations of media-oriented patterns.

About Jeremy:

Jeremy Kaposy is an aspiring illustrator from the mean streets of Burlington, Ontario. His talent was forged in the harsh Oakville landscape of Sheridan College. He now toils in relative obscurity within the wilds of Toronto's creative community.

He is available for commissions.

Previous Clientele

The Ryerson Review of Journalism, Kids Can Press, Nelvana Enterprises, The Feathertale Review, and more
