Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Juan Rojo Design is a small Toronto marketing company for other small to mid-sized businesses. Toronto marketing firms (agencies) typically focus on big corporations. Our main focus is on companies that need to outsource their marketing needs in order to concentrate on their core business. If you are not in Toronto, or even Canada for that matter, we can still help your business' visibility in the marketplace. We live in a time where working on projects for international clients is just as easy as dealing with someone local. Marketing firms across the city also rarely provide the wide range of services we offer in-house – from logo and packaging design, through to email design and deployment, search engine optimization and commercial photography. With our extensive small business experience, we can also help small companies create Toronto marketing plans that make sense on limited budgets.
