Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Keith Williams is a architectural photographer with extensive experience in photographing both finished projects and documenting works-in-progress. Based in New York City, Keith has photographed buildings and urban landscapes across the United States, devoting himself to mastering the light, scale, and palette of buildings in local contexts. Keith works in close collaboration with his clients, which include architects, developers, construction managers, advertising agencies and magazines to evocatively capture interiors and exteriors and to document the wonder of the construction process.

Keith is always scouting for new photographic subjects and challenges. Please contact him if you're interested in discussing new projects.
