Signs That It's Time for a Water Heater Replacement

Notice a Leak

Look if the tank has a leak in a joint, a seam or in a steel thread, then consider a water heater replacement.

Water Will Not Drain

If the water will no longer drain out, your tank is likely deteriorated so much that it will need to be replaced.

Minimal Pressure for Hot Water

If the check valve get stuck and tank gets completely deteriorated causing less water pressure, it must be replaced.

Water Does Not Get Hot

If the water is not getting as hot as it once used to get, then replacement is your only option.

Water Heater Tips

Set your thermostat at or around 120 degrees.

Drain the tank of sediment regularly.

Buy a water heater jacket to place around your tank.

When it comes to plumbing, replacement and installations, having a professional by your side makes sense.
