Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Marcus Christopher Ludl is an award-winning post-production specialist, graphic designer, university lecturer and founder of the design studio Deltagram. He graduated with honors both from the School of Arts and from the Technical University of Vienna and has been working in advertising for well over 15 years.

Together with an amazing freelance team of Viennese creatives he rocks the 14th district in Vienna.

Deltagram Studio was founded as an advertising agency in 2007 and later developed into a post-production firm specializing in high-end image retouching, photo design, digital composition and color correction. Deltagram is located in Vienna/Austria, but works without borders - both in vision and in location.

With a background firmly based in graphic design, prepress and scientific image processing and a keen eye for details, the specialists at Deltagram take care of the complete digital workflow - from RAW conversion to layout and digital retouching to the production of color-managed print data.
