Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae
Matt Brooke is a freelance Art Director based in London. After spells at i-D and British Elle, he became Design Director and, subsequently Art Director of Arena Magazine. He left the magazine in 2000 for New York where he launched the first American bi-annual men's title, Maxim Fashion USA.

His editorial background has enabled Matt to work extensively with some of the best photographers and fashion directors in the world. This can be noted through his advertising collaborations with esteemed photographers David LaChapelle, Norbert Schoerner, Phil Poynter and David Bailey.

His current portfolio of clients includes the Italian fashion house, Iceberg, Saville Row tailors, Gieves & Hawkes, Motorola and Nike. He has recently completed a photographic biography of the Real Madrid and Portugal soccer player Luis Figo.

Matt takes all his projects through from initial concept to final artwork, working closely to client's needs throughout. His London studio also boasts an on-site print manager and full high-end reprographic facilities.
