Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Illustrator and graphic designer Andy Wang graduated from Emily Carr University with a shiny and proud degree in communication design in the year 2010. Nine months later he was lured to intern at the International Designers Network in Hong Kong, and found himself in Shenzhen, China soon with a position as the Chief Designer in a visual communications company. Working in China meant proper English was rare, and it only appeared in the English version Adobe Illustrator Andy installed on his work computer. Now, he is back in Vancouver. After retouching his Chinese roots, Andy realized he couldn't stand Chinglish and he really missed his ligatures and small caps.
