Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I look at microscopic photography not as much for the content, but for the mystery of the beauty within the image. i am then compelled to recreate personal dream scapes that morph and mutate as if alive. As i put elements together to create a piece, i marvel in the complexity of the reactions of the substances as their properties both blend and reject each other. I create drawings in photoshop to simulate imaginary lab tools and cultures. Living in new york gives me the opportunity to be exposed to challenging works by artists like Damien Hirst, Anne Hamilton, Bill Viola, Tony Oursler to name a few, which have indirectly affected the way i view and present my work.
