Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

The world around us operates on many levels; we interact and live for the experience of what happens next. As a designer, and as an artist, I believe that communication is vital to the human experience and to the ways in which we live. Creative thinking and the skilful use of a diverse range of mediums is a powerful tool that can efficiently add additional layers of meaning to an idea, service or message whilst also opening up new opportunities.

My role is simply to assist on the level of communication that drives us, that inspires society to go beyond and to innovate. We live in a world that is constantly evolving around us; the ambitious among us all strive to achieve, to surpass and to evolve. As a result, I believe the ability to tell the world what we believe in is the most valuable asset to have in our procession, perhaps even a necessity for success.

So how does an artist express their inner beliefs, or a good designer communicate for a client? Personally, dedication is the cornerstone, the foundations of not just creative work, but of all professions; it builds character and experience in all those who possess it. It is the ultimate survival instinct; one that I believe has kept man alive for thousands of years. I would not be the same person without dedication, nor would I without the passion that drives me to challenge how I define myself.

My name is Owen Prescott and I am an artist, designer and a developer. Based in the UK, I am also a Graphic Design student and a freelancer available for hire and project collaborations. Over the years I have took it upon myself to become well rounded in all the areas of the visual arts as possible, I continue to do so and my portfolio I hope is testament to that. You can reach me privately through my email, otherwise feel free to leave comments and enjoy your time on this site, thanks.
