Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

My name is Lorenzo Pietrantoni. I was born in Genoa in 1970 and then moved to Milan where I graduated in a graphical school. I started working as an art director for Young & Rubicam France and later on moved back to Italy where I still live and work.

My passion for graphic design together with a passion for the period of the late '800 brought me to create illustrations, through the assembly of images retrieved from old dictionaries of that period, giving life again to books, events and characters that would otherwise have been forgotten on the shelves of some dusty bookshops.

I have created advertising campaigns, collaborated with international reviews and displayed in various exhibitions all around the world. I also recently completed my book that will be published soon. On the 30th of August I will be displaying in the Illustrative exhibiton 07 in Berlin. I am registered at the 59th Demi Brigade de ligne of Marengo and I love Perrier.
