Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

It's apparent that I love details and close-ups in life.

That's what I notice most of the time.

The collages and photography that I've created over the years are proof of this. I photograph unique details found in urban landscapes.

The images I discover are found on the sidewalks that we walk on daily and that otherwise go unnoticed.

The images I draw or photograph are abstract interpretations of the micro-reality that surrounds us all.

It was in November 2003 when I walked on a sidewalk in my hometown Hollywood, California and took my first abstract picture of a curb detail. Soon after that I found myself consumed by the desire to find more and more of these curious sidewalk appearances.
