Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

Shaina Fishman has photographed wild lions in Kenya, street dogs in Peru, and stray cats in Jerusalem, and hopes to one day photograph penguins in Antarctica. She is a commercial photographer specializing in capturing domestic animals in-studio and on location. Behind the lens from a young age she used the family pets—dogs, cats, hamsters, a salamander, and even a hawk—as her subjects. Her commercial photography career started in fashion photography but quickly transitioned into focusing solely on animals. Shaina currently live in New York City with her husband and their spunky papillon, Cosmo.
