FLIPPING COYNES

OKLAHOMA CITY'S MOST RUN-DOWN HOMES... ARE ABOUT TO GET ROCKED.

As lead singer of the Flaming Lips, Wayne Coyne could have lived anywhere he wanted. But instead of a Hollywood mansion, he and his wife bought a run-down fixer upper in Oklahoma City for $20,000. They turned it into a work of art. Then they bought more properties on the block and fixed those up too. The couple started a revolution, turning Oklahoma City into one of the premiere house-flipping cities in America.

FLIPPING COYNES follows Wayne and Michelle's journey to transform their home town house by house. Each hour-long episode focuses on one house, purchased for dirt cheap, that's in serious need of help. The couple renovates the property from the ground up in their signature style, providing for some of the most amazing before and afters ever seen. The Coyne's are not your typical flippers.

In his 30 year career, Wayne Coyne has earned a reputation as one of the most thrilling live performers in the world. He's been known to use costumes, balloons, puppets, and clapping light shows to keep his crowds entertained. Michelle Martin-Coyne is a renowned photographer and artist with an eye for interior design. True to their pedigree, the couple is never done with a house until they've put their own unique stamp on it.

One week it's a giant iron spider chandelier over the kitchen table, the next it's a flying dragon mosaic over the front door or a transparent pink shed in the backyard. Each home has a signature item built by Wayne and Michelle to make it distinct. And the rest of the house isn't exactly normal, the couple is known for retro-modern designs, bright colors, and an outside-the-box approach that makes their houses hot commodities.

As Wayne and Michelle scramble to complete each house, they face incompetent workers, looming deadlines, and the inherent difficulty of working alongside the person you're married to. Can Wayne give up his jellyfish tank to help the house come in on budget? Will the couple ever agree on the right shade of neon orange for the master bath? The drive and passion of this visionary duo are evident in every project.

By the end of each episode, we'll have seen one home go from beat-up to rocked-out, complete with all the drama that goes with it. We'll also see the profound effect each home has on the Oklahoma City community, which the Coyne's are out to bring back to its former glory, one house at a time.

FLIPPING COYNES... a new spin on renovation.
