Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae
Professionally, I regard myself as a writer, designer, photographer, and the creator behind the blog, Clean & Proper. A former member of the paper and printing industry, I specialize in helping businesses and bloggers of all sizes streamline marketing communications by creating compelling brand identity systems, corporate identity packages and strategic campaigns for social media.

These days I focus on social media, including the design, strategy and management of social campaigns. My true love will always be writing and design so any project that sparks my creative fancy is always worth considering.
