Professional Experience and Curriculum Vitae

I was never exposed to the artist life as neither of my parents can sing, draw or play instruments. However, they did expose me to travel and an eye for good taste.
I started a conventional corporate career, which rapidly became unconventional as I landed in Ethiopia in July 97. I stayed on the African continent for almost 10 years… half of my adult life.
Later, I returned to Africa (with a camera this time) and I realised the pleasure I had in looking trough the lens. I haven't stopped taking pictures since. I had my first exhibition in Dec 08.
I now work as a freelance photographer in London and in South of France. I run North London Photo Studio where I do most of the Portraits shoots.
Thanks to my marketing background, I am able to add value in commercial photography through great understanding of the commercial objectives.
I also specialised in Aviation photography.
