Over 100 Clinics
With more than 1,000
patients wait to consult their doctors everyday

Targeting Patients

Parents, teachers, engineers, consultants, business owners, children are all susceptible to illnesses that require medical attention.

If your business targets patients in the doctors' waiting rooms, Magsys can give it exposure through its Queue Manager which displays your advertisements to the waiting patients while they keep alert for their number to be displayed on the clinics and hospitals' que number display, powered by Magsys.

“More than 1,000 people of various backgrounds, and therefore various needs, wait to see their doctors everyday.

Magsys can capture their attention for you while they are waiting for their turn.”

How Magsys Works

Each day, a lot of people waits for their turn to consult their doctors - illnesses can range from a mild cold, to chronic ones such as heart problem, diabetes and cancer.

Clinics and hospital nowadays adopt a queuing system to signal patients their turn to see the doctor, and Magsys's Queue Manager is installed in many clinics, hospitals and medical centers nationwide to track and display the turn numbers for the waiting patients.

Everyday, approximately 10 to 20 patients wait their turn in an average clinic, while 100 to 200 in hospitals and medical centers.

Magsys's Queue Manager is installed in more than 100 clinics, hospitals and medical centers nationwide, and has potential viewers of more than 1,000 per day nationwide.

f Zahir75

Ahmad Zahirudin, or Zahir, was born 10th August 1975 in Taiping, Perak, his parents being teacher's college lecturers. He studied in Anderson High School, Ipoh, and later obtained a Bachelor's Degree in Education, majoring in Teaching English as a Secondary Language (TESL) with honours, in 1999.

One of Zahir's critical employment started him as an Instructional Designer for e-learning modules in Universiti Tun Abdul Razak (UNITAR) in 1999, and later for Open University Malaysia in (OUM) 2001 - Zahir was one of the original team at OUM to have designed and developed the learning management system that is being used by more than 80,000 OUM students worldwide to this day.

Throughout his vocational life, Zahir has had a hand in pioneering Maybank and PETRONAS's e-learning initiatives; setting up the National E-Learning Center for Saudi Arabia's Ministry of Higher Education in Riyadh, and designing and developing multimedia learning objects for Pearson's Publishing (USA).

More than dabbling in e-learning, Zahir has had a hand as well in the e-Perolehan and Tender2U systems used by the Malaysian Ministry of Finance today (he also wrote the guide for "Aset dan Stor" used by the ministry today).

Currently, Zahir heads his own creative agency Neusoftpro Sdn Bhd with offices in Bandar Sri Permaisuri, Cheras, doing web and print designs, enterprise systems development, and creative industry intellectual properties design and development.

Portal Eilmu is another important initiative by Zahir to help 1Malaysia entrepreneurs to leverage on technologies to start-up businesses as well as enhancing even further existing ones. Through Portal Eilmu, Zahir is mentoring more than 6,000 individuals online, and has circulated more than 720,000 e-mails to his online subscribers.

Portal Eilmu is online at www.eilmu.my and is supported by the Malaysian Ministry of Information Communications and Culture, Bank Simpanan Nasional, Technology Park Malaysia and Telekom Malaysia Berhad, with possible collaborations with Astro, Media Prima and TV Al-Hijrah in the pipeline.

“ Through Portal Eilmu, Zahir is mentoring more than 6,000 individuals online, and has circulated more than 720,000 e-mails to his subscribers. ”
